Other Luxury Assets

It is not uncommon for families to hold some form of tangible or luxury assets within their investment portfolios.

From vintage and rare cars to fine wines and art, such assets are frequently found within family structures. These assets may be purchased as an investment or simply as a lifestyle choice inspired by a particular interest.

With forethought and expert tax and legal advice, significant benefits can be gained including financial security for families, an opportunity to minimise potential tax liabilities on the luxury asset and a chance for the owner to leave a lasting legacy through proper preservation. We can help families create an ownership structure and succession plan that will preserve and protect the value of their assets for future generations.

A trustee's role may include buying, selling, exhibiting, maintaining, moving or loaning the assets. In each case different considerations arise that require detailed and separate examination. We provide the expertise required to establish the appropriate ownership structure and to obtain and maintain adequate records. The holding of certain assets in a special purpose vehicle SPV will ring-fence the liabilities and protect the trustee.

 Our global Aviation and Marine specialists have a long track record of delivering practical and commercial solutions to clients in the aviation and marine markets.

Family Office Services

Ogier has a wealth of experience in working with different types of family office.

We work with local and international families and providers of family office services in order to meet the diverse needs of ultra-high-net-worth UHNW individuals and their families and to understand the challenges facing them. In particular, Ogier has identified the increasing need for UHNW individuals and their families to establish family offices with substance in our jurisdictions.

We can provide practical assistance in relation to the governance of family offices, in particular the role of family members, external consultants and investment advisors in the family office structure, succession issues and generational planning and the creation of soft or hard frameworks to support interaction and communication between the family office, family members and their key advisors.

We can also assist with the legal and regulatory issues involved in establishing new family offices and for existing family offices. This includes financial services regulation, necessary licensing and staffing permissions, anti-money laundering reporting and obligations, and data protection, together with the relocation of family members, family offices and staff to our jurisdictions and related business set-up, property, immigration and employment matters.

We can provide training to family office administrators to assist with CPD requirements. Our corporate administration business Ogier Global has a specialist Private Wealth Services team which establishes and governs structures.

We offer support across every time zone

Benefits of corporate ownership

There are many types of entities that can be used to own a yacht. Each has its own merits dependent on the circumstances of the ultimate beneficial owner and the intended use of the yacht.

Professional legal and tax advice should be obtained prior to the purchase of a yacht. Ogier has the legal expertise to advise on the corporate ownership structure and Ogier Global will provide fiduciary and corporate services for the ongoing management of the SPV.

Limited liability

Properly set up and maintained SPVs limit the liability of the beneficial owner to the value of the assets in the structure.

Confidentiality

Offshore entities often provide a greater level of protecting the anonymity of the beneficial owner.

Yacht flag

Each flag state has its own requirements for permitting individuals to register a yacht. Where the individual does not qualify in their own name for their flag of choice, an SPV from a qualifying jurisdiction can be used to own and register the yacht.

Financing

Many finance providers prefer to lend to recognised offshore structures.

Aircraft registration

Choosing a registry with the highest regulatory standards is the number one consideration. Whether the aircraft is to be for private use, corporate private user or commercially chartered will also play a part in choosing the most suitable registry. Offshore registries provide a greater degree of privacy.

Commercial charter

SPVs are most suitable for chartering operations and can provide a number of personal tax benefits for the beneficial owners if the structure is properly created and maintained.

Key considerations for a new yacht owner

How will the yacht be used?

Privately, commercially, a combination of the two? There will be different fiscal duties/VAT dependent on use and jurisdiction.

Size of the yacht?

This will determine which ship registries are available to use.

Where will the yacht be sailed?

Correct custom clearances must be obtained for chosen cruising areas.

Where will the yacht be berthed?

Does the chosen marina have a large enough berth? If the previous owner sells you a berth there may be a tax exposure. Seek tax advice prior to agreeing the purchase.

How will the yacht be managed?

The larger the yacht, the more support required. A reputable yacht management company working together with the owning company allows the client to focus on enjoying their time aboard the yacht.

Environmental concerns?

There are several ways to allay environmental concerns. Consider joining the International Seakeepers Society or take advantage of new green technology.

Yacht registration in the UAE

Yacht owners choose the UAE for registration due to its strategic location, world-class marinas, stable political environment, flexible ownership structures, a thriving luxury yachting culture, quality yacht services, recognition of international standards, and an efficient registration process.

The UAE provides a secure and convenient hub for yacht owners, offering a tax-friendly environment, state-of-the-art marinas, and access to a range of high-quality services. The stable political climate and adherence to international standards further contribute to the appeal of the UAE for yacht registration.

Ownership structuring

The UAE offers remarkable ownership structures for private clients, especially high-net-worth individuals (HNWIs) and ultra-high-net-worth individuals (UHNWIs), as well as prominent business families. Notable features include:

- Versatile options

HNWIs and UHNWIs can choose between setting up in free zones or the mainland depending on their preferred structures.

- Free zones (FZs):

The UAE boasts over 40 Free Zones, each governed by an independent Free Zone Authority (FZA). These zones offer autonomy and are responsible for licensing and regulating companies operating within them.

Mainland ownership changes

Before 1 June 2021 a mainland UAE company required at least 51% ownership by a UAE national sponsor or partner. This requirement was eliminated through amendments to the Commercial Companies Law, with exceptions based on specific "positive lists" that define permissible activities.

HNWIs and UHNWIs looking to establish holding structures in the UAE, can have the option to utilise the Dubai International Financial Centre (DIFC) as a free zone. The DIFC is a prominent financial hub that offers a favourable environment for various business activities, including holding companies.

The approximate DIFC government fees will be the following:

- Incorporation fees (one-time payment) – US$ 8,000
- License fees upon incorporation and annually – US$ 12,000
- Establishment Card (annually) – US$ 618 (in case if you need to apply for visas)
- Personnel Sponsorship Agreement Deposit – US$ 680 (in case if you apply for Establishment Card)
- Data Protection – US$750 (if applicable)

Please note that the fees for lease and residency visas are not included.

If the yacht is intended for commercial use, the arrangement will vary. We can tailor a proposal to meet the specific needs of the client in this scenario.

Registration of a yacht in Dubai

The oversight of Dubai's entire maritime sector falls under the jurisdiction of the Dubai Maritime City Authority (DMCA), which mandates approvals from the Federal Transport Authority – Land & Maritime (FTA) and the Coastguards during the yacht registration process.

To register a yacht in Dubai, it is imperative that the owner is either a citizen or a resident of the UAE. Tourists are ineligible for yacht registration, and even foreign business owners in the UAE must possess a UAE visa before commencing the registration process.

The registration process and fees may differ slightly according to the type of yacht, and below are the initial documents that will need to be submitted:

1. Copy of proof of ownership document or marine craft purchase invoice attested by the certified authorities or marine craft building certificate
2. Copy of proof of minimum monthly income AED 20,000 or copy of title deed free hold property owners to whom the residence law is not applicable for expatriates (not required for pleasure water sport)
3. Copy of certificate of conformity issued by Emirates Authority for Standardisation and Metrology (ESMA) for the new outboard marine engines (not required for pleasure water sport)
4. Copy of the certificate of approved supplier to license radio communication devices (VHF) for all commercial marine crafts and pleasure marine crafts more than 35 feet, (10.7 metres) long (not required for pleasure water sport)
5. Insurance policy valid for 13 months issued by an insurance firm licensed in the Emirate.
6. Coast Guard Certificate to install transponder device
7. Other requirements depends on the marine craft type and conditions.

At the top of their game and rightly regarded as part of the elite Chambers, 2023
