

Ogier's Private Wealth team "leading players in the Channel Islands"

News - 16/07/2020

As "leading players in the Channel Islands," the quality and gravity of Ogier's Jersey Private Wealth team's work "is really quite significant," says the newest edition of Chambers High Net Worth, an independent review of the world's best private client advisers.

Ogier provides extensive trust and wealth structuring advice for clients across the world. It is named as one of just two top tier firms in the island by Chambers, with five of the team being singled out for praise.

Global Service Line Head of Private Wealth James Campbell, who advises individual and institutional clients on a wide range of trust matters, is "very pragmatic, sensible and a nice guy to deal with".

Sally Edwards has a broad range of expertise in private client and wealth planning matters, "knows her stuff" and "always does the best for the client".

Josephine Howe, a "well-known" offshore practitioner who advises on a wide range of trust and private wealth matters, advising a variety of high net worth clients, is "pragmatic, she cuts to the chase and she is good to work with".

Katherine Neal, who has in-depth expertise in trust and wealth structuring matters, "is switched-on, bright and very capable".

James Campbell said: "Ogier's Jersey Private Wealth team continues to lead the market. Alongside this latest recognition in Chambers HNW guide, the Jersey Private Wealth team has been ranked top tier in Chambers UK 2020 with the highest number of ranked individuals, showing the unrivalled status of the team among clients and peers."
