

Ogier's restructuring and insolvency expertise recognised in GRR 100

News - 20/12/2022

Ogier has been recognised as among the leading law firms globally for its Restructuring and Insolvency offering by independent media group Global Restructuring Review (GRR).

Ogier's inclusion in the list follows 12 months of research by GRR, reviewing 153 law firms from 38 jurisdictions.

Ogier has been instructed on some of the largest and most significant restructuring matters to hit its jurisdictions in recent years, including representing the joint liquidators of cryptocurrency hedge fund Three Arrows Capital, advising on the US$1.3 billion restructuring of global commodities trading business Noble Trading, and the US$7.5 billion restructuring of The Ardonagh Group, the UK's largest independent insurance distribution platform.

The list's publication comes as Ogier's Guernsey team welcomes the jurisdiction's new insolvency law, which partner Alex Horsbrugh-Porter sat on the rules committee for, and the global team is seeing an uptick in restructuring and insolvency instructions.

Global head of Restructuring and Insolvency Mathew Newman said: "We're pleased to receive this industry recognition from GRR which provides further independent verification of our restructuring and corporate recovery capabilities at a time of increasing instructions. Our team continues to work on market-leading restructuring matters across our jurisdictions, which positions us well to support clients across industries as we move into 2023."
