

Matt McManus will be participating in the Jersey Finance panel discussion on the future of Private Equity and Venture Capital along with other leading experts from Jersey and London

The panel will explore the economic and geo-political factors that could impact Private Equity as well as examining the activity in the secondaries market, the themes for Venture Capital including their appetite for Crypto and look at key policy changes within the sector including the UK initiative to widen distribution channels for Private Equity to private wealth and pensions.