Third party litigation funding in the Cayman Islands: a shift in policy

In a landmark ruling, the Grand Court of Cayman approved a third party litigation funding agreement.

The Court's observations have until now been restricted to the use of funding for the benefit of impecunious liquidation estates. This was a case involving a large multinational seeking to take advantage of funding for other commercial reasons.

Rare example of anti-anti-suit injunction in Guernsey

An anti-anti suit injunction is a form of anti-suit injunctive relief granted by a particular court to stop a party pursuing an application for an anti-suit injunction in another court. The Guernsey Court of Appeal case of Carlyle Capital Corporation (in liquidation) ("CCC") and others v Conway and others handed down on 27 April 2012, sets out the Guernsey position on anti-anti suit injunctions.
